

England Will Send Strong Force to Combat Germans

London, Aug. 28.—Having smashed the first line of Franco-British defense the German advance guard has pushed beyond Lille bending southward in the direction of Paris. Invaders it is believed, are assaulting the strongly entrenched allies along the left wing and trying to batter their way through the Franco-British lines near Maubeuge.

Latest dispatches indicate that Germans have not occupied Lille, but can do so whenever they wish. Information filtering through the hands of the censors causes the belief that England will send a strong force to Ostend and strike the German right wing in the rear.

Some newspapers declare there remains no great obstacle between the immense German army and Paris declaring the situation is critical.

WHY WAR CAUSES HIGHER SUGAR

The reason for the advance in the price of sugar since the European war began is that the great sugar beet fields of the Continent are in the zones of actual fighting. In the federal, state and municipal crusades in this country, since the war began, against alleged unmannered increase in the high cost of living, it has been said that the advance in sugar has not been justified.

Sugar men think differently and point to the fact that the sugar plantations of France and Germany are directly in the line of fighting and the Russian frontier of Germany.

Almost all the sugar produced in Europe comes from those two regions and the sugar industry of Europe is likely to be paralyzed for years to come because of the struggle.

It has been pointed out that the destruction of the sugar beet fields of Europe need not affect the price here, as the United States imports little if any European sugar.

But immediately on the outbreak of hostilities, England bought up the entire output of one sugar refinery in the United States, and other large foreign orders have been placed. So long as the war lasts and perhaps for an indefinite period after the conclusion of peace, Europe's sugar will come from America. That is what is causing the advance in price in this country.

Dothan Man Grows Limes In Houston

Cotton, corn, potatoes pigs and tobacco are not the only "things" that will flourish in Houston county, as has been clearly demonstrated.

Now comes Oscar Williams, who has a farm near town, upon which he has raised three or four bushels of limes, and if he just had more trees, he would consequently have more limes. It looks as if the land of this section will produce most anything that can be grown from the soil.

GERMAN VICTORIES OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

Berlin, Aug. 28.—Defeat of the English at Maubeuge and of Franco-Belgians at Namur is officially announced today.

The announcement says the British fought desperately but were finally driven back across the Senne river where they are in danger of being surrounded by Germans. If this report is true, the British have retreated fifty miles.

FRANCO-BRITISH ARMIES ARE SURROUNDED BY GERMANS

Washington, Aug. 28.—A wireless from the German foreign office to the embassy here says the Franco-British armies of the north on the Sambre and Meuse rivers have been surrounded on all sides by Germans and the eastern army of France partly driven to the southward. Fighting has been on for a week.

MEDICAL SCHOOL TO REMAIN AT MOBILE

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 28.—President Denny, of the University of Alabama, declares the report that the medical department will be moved from Mobile to Birmingham is unfounded.

A BIG TATER.

Mr. F. P. Hurst of route six, brings in a fine sweet potato. The potato which is of the red skin, sixty day variety, weighed three pounds and that is what we call a mighty fine potato for August 28. Who can beat it? Mr. Hurst says he thinks he will make five hundred bushels this year.

Police Chief Tries Post Card System

Just take it from City Clerk Libbey that "wifey" does not want "hubby dear" to work on the streets of Dothan.

Chief of Police Rollins, in an effort to collect delinquent street taxes, has been mailing out a number of postals in which individuals are cited to appear at the city hall on certain dates, prepared to work the streets. The card also explains that $5.00 will keep said individuals from having to "shoulder a spade."

Now it happens that a number of married men were out of town, and their wives consequently received the cards. They immediately began telephoning the city clerk when "hubby" would return, and fork over the necessary five spot.

10,000 ENGLISH SOLDIERS KILLED IN BELGIUM

London, Aug. 28.—Ten thousand English soldiers were killed in the fighting in Belgium, according to claims of Germans.

Clever Deception.

Men who crossed their necks and hunted against each other to get a look at the girl on exhibition in one of the store windows were given the laugh by women in the crowd. The fluttering of the girl's parasol, and the blowing of her dress convinced the men that they were looking at a "living model," and it was not until they had gazed at it for some time that they discovered they had been fooled. By arrangements of fans the breeze gently blew the gown worn by the wax figure, and also her parasol. Her hair was blown about her face in a most bewitching fashion and more than one man exclaimed, "Isn't she a peach!" and discovered his error when the women in the crowd snickered.—Worcester Post.

Secret of His Success.

His character was good, his references were excellent and his ability was undoubted. He was a first favorite for the position. "And now," said his future employer, "would you mind telling me your politics? It won't make any difference to me, really, what side you support, only for the smooth working of my business I find it necessary often to know the political complexion of some of my employees." A hard look came into the candidate's eyes. "Politics?" he said, "what are my politics? The question can be very easily and briefly answered. I'm against politics." He was engaged forthwith.

Destructive Golf Bug.

"British scientists have discovered a golf bug that destroys the grass on the links." "Pshaw, they're nothing new! We had a lot of trouble with them at our golf club, but we got out of the difficulty by posting signs saying: 'Please replace turf cuts.'"—Buffalo Express.

MORE WARRANTS FOR BENNET

Proceedings Instituted in Justice Butler's Court Against Dr. J. W. Bennett, of Cottonwood Charged With Practicing Medicine Without a License.

Two warrants were issued yesterday afternoon from Justice T. W. Butler's court charging Dr. J. W. Bennett, of Cottonwood, with practicing medicine without a license. Two warrants charging Dr. Bennett with a similar offense, issued from the Probate Court, were served upon the man yesterday morning. He made bond in both cases, and presumably returned to Cottonwood.

The warrants for the arrest of Dr. Bennett were issued at the instigation of Dr. Henry Green, a prominent Dothan physician, who is president of the county medical society.

Remarkable stories of what Dr. Bennett is said to have been accomplishing at Cottonwood in the way of cures, are told around the court house daily by people from the Cottonwood district. Whether these stories are true, is not known.

According to reports reaching Dothan, Dr. Bennett is creating a genuine sensation in the Cottonwood district. It seems that he was doing his work in Georgia until some Cottonwood party went across the State line for treatment, and returned with a wonderful account of the man's success. Afterwards he left Georgia for Cottonwood, where he is now located.

Would Stop Manipulation of Wheat Prices

Washington, Aug. 28.—Representative Cary of Wisconsin, introduced a resolution today demanding action by the Attorney General to stop manipulation of the price of wheat and asking the President to prohibit the exporting of wheat and flour if operations of the grasping manipulators cannot be otherwise checked. There is no excuse for the advances, the resolution declared.

The Chestnut.

The axis, or chestnut deer of the Indian jungle can claim to be the most ornamental of all the 36 races of deer to be seen gathered together at Woburn, England. In the early summer, when all the other deer except the wapiti are either shedding their horns or "in the velvet," the axis are in perfection, both of color and antlers. The large herd of this species looks as if carved out of ivory and red gold in the sunshine and verdure of English scenery. Their horns are almost white, their eyes and muzzles of jet black, their throats white and their sides and backs a brilliant golden tan, spotted with round dots of purest white.

Gift Frames.

To brighten gift frames rub them with freshly baked bread moistened with ammonia, or try the older method of washing them in water in which onions have been boiled and to which a little sulphur has been added. The sulphur aids in keeping the yellow color.

Uncle Eben.

"Eben" a high-flyer," said Uncle Eben, "simply makes it easier for people to make out the difference between an eagle and a buzzard."

ALBERT, KING OF THE BELGIANS

The brilliant soldierly record of King Albert of the Belgians in this war has astonished the world as much as has the bravery of the Belgians, who defended Liege so valorously against the Germans. A month ago neither the Belgian army nor the King had any particular reputation as fighters. The world knew little of King Albert. His father, King Leopold was almost always in the limelight for one cause or another, but Albert has lived rather quietly.

Belgium has belonged to the Belgians only since 1830 when the people carried out a successful revolution against Holland, by whom they had been ruled.

When the country was invaded by Napoleon I on one side, and by England and Germany on the other for the battle of Waterloo in 1815, the people did not defend their country. There was no cry of neutrality being violated. The difference is now that the Belgians are fighting for their own.

King Albert does not belong to them by any bond of blood. He is the grandson of the first king of the Belgians, a German prince of Saxo-Coburg-Gotha, who was invited to rule as Leopold I. His sovereignty lasted for thirty-four years and that of his son, Leopold II, lasted for forty-four years. King Albert ascended the throne in 1909.

The King and Queen Elizabeth have had to sacrifice their nearest and dearest family ties, to remain loyal to Belgium during this war. Both are as German as centuries of German blood can make them. The Queen, who is the daughter of Duke Carl Theodore of Vavaria, one of the most celebrated eye specialists of his generation, is the namesake and god-daughter of her aunt, the murdered Empress Elizabeth of Austria, who was assassinated at Geneva. She had, up to now, maintained the most cordial relations with her aged uncle, Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary.

King Albert, on his side, has many ties in Germany. His mother was Princess Marie of Hohenzollern of the family of the Kaiser. His sister is the wife of Prince Charles of Hohenzollern, a kinsman of the Kaiser, who lives in Berlin and is helping the Germans to plan the control of Belgium. King Albert's most intimate friends have been the German Crown Prince and the other sons of the Kaiser.

The King has been with his soldiers in the field, since he gave his defiant reply to the Kaiser's demand to give German troops free passage through his country. The royal palace at Laeken, where King Leopold spend a large fortune on the gardens alone, has been turned over to the Red Cross in which the Queen herself has been enrolled. She is a regular graduate nurse and holds a doctor's certificate also.

King Albert is 39 years old and Queen Elizabeth a year younger—38. Many Americans have met the king, who spent several months in this country sixteen years ago. He had dinner in Washington with President McKinley, was entertained at Newport by Mrs. Potter Palmer, and spent considerable time in New York. In St. Louis he spent three days incognito at a hotel as "John Banks, of New York."

He has a private fortune of some twenty odd millions besides a magnificent liberal grant made by the Belgian government. He and Queen Elizabeth did not have any formal coronation such as other sovereigns have following the example of Leopold II, who gave to the people the large sum, many thousands of dollars, for which they had been taxed to pay for the coronation. The new king and queen, however, had a state entry into Brussels the day before Christmas five years ago, when the cannon boomed a salute and the church bells rang out on hundreds of thousands of their subjects thronged the streets to receive their new rulers. They have three children, Prince Leopold, Prince Charles and little Princess Marie.

The king and queen have been very democratic, easily accessible to all classes of society and they have become so popular that the Socialists who used to demand a Republic for Belgium are now seldom heard from.

Russian Army Has Attacked Lemberg

St. Petersburg, Aug. 28.—Advancing rapidly through Galicia the Russian army has attacked Lemberg, the capital of that Austrian province. It was officially announced today that a hundred and twenty thousand Austrians are opposing the Russians, but the general staff says "all is well with Russia." Lemberg is an important military center.

Americans Anxious To Leave Paris Before Storm Breaks

Paris, Aug. 28.—The American embassy was besieged today by Americans anxious to leave before the storm breaks. Accommodations for them are being secured by Ambassador Horrick as rapidly as possible.

Hundreds of residents are leaving for southern France and Spain as fast as they can get away. Socialists have put heart and soul into the war, declaring a German triumph would endanger free government.

Paris, Aug. 28.—Wounded French officers arriving here today estimated that German losses in the three days fighting at Charleroi were six thousand killed and wounded. Germans have swallowed Longwy and are now pouring an avalanche of men into France through Treves Gap and have already reached Verdun.

LAWLESSNESS IS THEME FOR SERMON SUNDAY

Imperative Message of Affairs, Morality and Socially in Dothan, Will Be Discussed by Rev. M. M. McNeill Sunday Night.

"The desperate state of affairs, morally and socially, in Dothan, will be dealt with by Rev. M. M. McNeill, pastor of the Foster street Methodist Church, in his sermon Sunday night. Dr. McNeill believes there should be reform, and will make his position clear in a special sermon he is preparing upon the subject.

The Great Arrangement. Taking for his subject "The Great Arrangement" or Jehovah's controversy with His people, Dr. McNeill will speak to the moral and social conditions of Dothan next Sunday night. The desperate state of affairs, morally and socially will be dealt with faithfully with the hope that a reformation will result.

His text will be from Isaiah 1:4-6: "Ah, sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity, a seed of evil doers, children that deal corruptly! They have forsaken Jehovah, they have despised the Holy One of Israel, they are estranged and gone backward. Why will ye be still stricken, that ye revolt more and more. The whole head is sick and the whole heart is faint. From the sole of the foot even unto the hand there is no soundness in it: but wounds and bruises and fresh stripes: they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with oil."

CONCEALING THE MORNING OF WAR.

Commercial Appeal
There has been one good effect in the elimination of the war correspondents. Graphic pictures of the horrors of war have not been sketched. The world may be robbed of the opportunity to follow the great European conflict with intelligent appreciation, but it will know in time exact details and cruel features can not then be so graphically pictured.

Brilliant correspondents on the actual scenes of strife, with trained skill, can tell of the shocking mutilation of men, the destruction of homes and the havoc wrought on the face of the earth. As it is, such vivid accounts are withheld. They are left to imagination alone.

War speaks to men of glory. It appeals to them as the highway to distinction. It is the ultimate route to honor. It is also the pathway of duty, the climax of a patriotic obligation and supreme loyalty.

Stirred by the excitement of events, tense with nerves strung to a high spirit of mingled exaltation and grim determination, forgetful of the ties at home and those who have been left behind to grieve and wait. With red before their eyes, men on the battle field become savages in a sense. They are not themselves. They are carried on through the same and spirit of patriotism.

War correspondents are thrilled with the same enthusiasm. Their first ambition is to get the news and the next is to report it as vividly and as correctly as they can.

This means that descriptions of a great battle would be almost revolting. The picture to be perfect must be a bloody one.

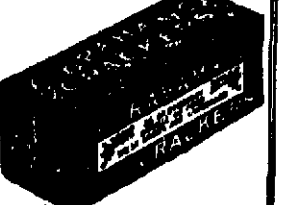

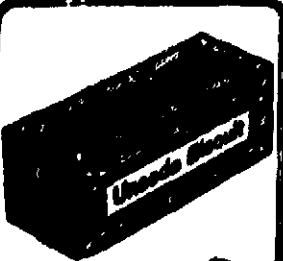

We know of the horrors of war. We know of the awful suffering of human life, of the endless suffering which follows a battle. We know, also, of the suffering at home of the widows and orphans left to mourn. Martial music gives way to the sigh of a dirge. Penns of the battle field give way to chants of grief.

It is just as well that such tragic scenes be left to the imagination. Every one appreciates a thrilling account of a battle well fought, but it is not necessary to punctuate such a story with the brutal incidents of the conflict.

For this reason it may be well, after all, that the correspondents are not permitted to face the firing line. The world wants above all the news, and can well afford to have the horrors of war eliminated.

The wedding comes along about the time a woman realizes that she married a blackhead.

When a girl wants to marry a man because he is a graceful Tango dancer, she never stops to think that he will be able to do any great thing.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Spencer Winhart, a young man of 24, was killed in the High national road race on Saturday, when his car, running at 110 miles an hour, whirled off the track, described a somersault and crashed into a tree and a fence, which was splintered by the impact. Known as a devil among drivers, inheritor of the "speed king's" mantle from the shoulders of Barney Oldfield, Winhart was a favorite with patrons of automobile races, and in this meet a large part of the throng along side the track delightedly shouted for him to win. His bride of two months was one of the spectators helped to avert his fate when the more brush of a rival's wheel threw his car from the road upon the frightful tangent.

It is not only with aviators and motorist in desperate competition that the temptation to exceed the speed limit is the fingerpost pointing straight to a tragedy. In the social, the industrial, the political realm the same is legion of those who are riding to a fall caring for nothing but to get there, reckless of all but the pace that kills. In the headlong, headstrong fever to gain even the minutest fraction of an advantage, to these speculators gambling in the stock of human life it is futile to preach the certain sequel of their insensate, suicidal folly. For a brief time, indeed, they seem to sweep all opposition before them like chaff before the wind, and their brilliant audacity triumphs. They are beset by sycophants, flattered obsequiously, with no one to thwart their wild and cometary flight. Then comes the day of reckoning with nature's impugnable law. The physical organism revolts.

There is no suspension of the rules for private benefit. The human machine runs off the track and is in ghastly ruin and the epitaph grins to show that the speed limit was exceeded.

HOWL GARDEN'S JOY.

Importers (Kun) Gazette

Home grown tomatoes home grown green beans home grown sweet corn, home grown onion home grown radishes! All these and more, fall to the lot of the man who likes to delve into the earth in the spring and summer while his neighbor tecks the golf grounds says the Indianapolis News. And the home gardener is getting his revenge now for what can compare with tomatoes fresh from over a back yard garden? There is a flavor a whip to them that comes like a benediction to the city dweller who has been eating the insipid offerings from the northland for weeks. The Noma may farther. It is fine indeed to be able to say nonchalantly to the broker next door when he dilates on the fine tomatoes that he purchased at the market. For the market gives you a choice of some mighty fine vegetables but I (and mostly you may be justified in puffing up at the program) rarely enough in my back yard to make me independent of the tomato and other vegetables of the market.

Talk about plucking bright honor from the palefaced moon! what ever that means. It is far better to pluck a big fat tomato looking in the sun and begging you to pull it. One might almost paraphrase an old saying and remark that the rate of his own tomatoes is greater than he that taketh a city. There is considerable satisfaction, too, in knowing that you can make a tiny tomato set do your bidding to the extent of furnishing a favorite summer food. A garden is both an education and a health giver. Under the influence of the sun and water, whether from the skies or via the water company, one can almost see it grow. And the little ye amateur gardeners care about the high cost of living. With his beans, and corn and potatoes and all the et ceteras, he may almost become a stranger to the grocer. And as an appetite whetter for the garden product, just go out into the garden with a hoe. There's fine summer mornings before the dew has fled before the sun.

THE POOR MAN'S SOCIAL

CLUB AND ITS EVILS.

Montgomery Journal

Two Montgomeryans met at a so called Poor Man's Social Club a few evenings ago.

In plain words at a saloon. They had been at work all day, and were returning to their homes near a suburb of Montgomery. They had been life-long friends. They were still friends, and greeted each other cordially and pleasantly when they met.

Let's take a drink said the one to the other.

The first glass was taken another then another—and many another. They forgot about home. They forgot they were friends. Their brains were filled with drink. With blood shot eyes and muddled speech the one began to upbraid the other for an imaginary wrong.

A blow was passed. One was felled to the ground.

As he arose he drew his knife and began carving his life time friend.

The one is in the infirmary with his stomach and bowels ripped open and is expected to die. The other is in jail without bond. The moral of the story is clear.

There never was a man whose conscience was so clear that he didn't do some worrying when his wife tells him that he talked in his sleep.

LIKE MILK SAYS

From the Cincinnati Enquirer

There never was a woman who was so ugly that she didn't imagine that nearly all the men had designs on her.

The man who can drink or let it alone is usually the lad the bar tender has to lead to the door at midnight.

You always respect the intelligence of the man who hates the same man you hate.

Some men loop the loop in a rope and other men tie corn fields out for cane ridges.

Married women are so interested that a whole lot of matter will rather run a chance of being shot in the chest than to be alone.

There wouldn't be so much misery in this world if it cost $1.00 for a license to hunt trouble.

Every woman believes that if she dies before her husband he will die up some palmy young thing and make her stepmother to the child.

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION

Birmingham, Aug. 28.—The executive officers of the Alabama Good Roads Association is making every effort possible to secure speakers and to make an entertaining program for the 15th annual session of the Association, which meets in Montgomery on October 21st to 23. Mr. A. G. Bachelder, chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Automobile Association, headquarters at Washington, D. C., has accepted an invitation to deliver an address on the subject of "How shall the Federal Government participate in Road building." Mr. Bachelder is a pleasing speaker and is an active and practical good roads advocate. His address will no doubt be greatly enjoyed by the large gathering that will be in attendance on this occasion.

Big Breakfast.

Even Peacock's generous idea of suitable provisions for a breakfast was surpassed by a London host who entertained J. L. Motley, August 3, 1867. Motley writes to his daughter: "I went to the last breakfast of the season of the Philobiblon society, given by Mr. Turner, a collector of rare books. Beginning with coffee and tea, we ended with sherry, champagne and maraschino; fish, cutlets, rots, salads, game, puddings and ice going on meanwhile in regular order. If you ask me what I did, I can only say I opened my ears to the animated and intellectual conversation, and my mouth, not to eat, but to gaze and gasp and wonder at the prodigious consumption of victuals at that hour of the day. When I reflected that all those people would lunch at two and three at eight, I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."

Beer Always on Tap.

Bavaria has the world's record for beer drinking. Perhaps that accounts for a certain push button in the city of Nuremberg. On one of the many interesting little streets of that quaint old town there is a large, plain-looking building which serves as the downtown office and warehouse of a certain large brewery. In the wall near the door of this wholesale establishment there is a push button that evidently connects with an electric bell somewhere. Over it is a sign reading "Herglocke," which translated literally into English means "Beer Bell"—evidently an arrangement for summoning more beer in case of emergency.

"GETS-IT," 2 Drops, Corn Vanishes

The Only Sure Ender of All Corns. Desperate, are you, over trying to get rid of corns? Quit using old formulas under new names, bandages, winding-tapes and cotton rings that make a fat little package out of your toe. Quit punishing your feet by using toe-eating salves and ointments.

This is the Grip of the Heavy Corns, Corns, Blisters, and "GETS-IT."

To use knives, files, scissors and razors, slicing and hacking at a corn, only make it grow faster and bigger. It also brings danger of bleeding and blood poison. The new way, the new principle never known before in corn-history, is "GETS-IT." It's a liquid—2 drops on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and out it comes! You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never falls.

Try "GETS-IT" tonight on corns, calluses, warts or bunions.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"GETS-IT" is sold in Dothan by N. H. McCallum.

DR. MASROW RETURNING.

Dr. J. E. Masrow Will Return to Dothan Saturday, Sept. 5.

Reasons why you should come to Dr. Masrow. He devotes his entire time to refracting eyes and fitting glasses, and nothing else. His method of eye examination is different. It is the outcome of study and of twenty-two years experience in correcting difficult cases. Many Dothan people who have come to him for glasses have told their experience elsewhere. They have to do the lack of beneficial results. And they have since told in published testimonials the result of Dr. Masrow's work. Why take chances with some who make this as a side line. Remember Dr. Masrow will be in his Dothan office Saturday, Sept. 5, this-morn.

She sleeps—the gentle lady sleeps—
You need not whisper, need not look so sad,
Even should you smile while she lies there so still she will not care—
She may be glad.

Death hath such a sweet dignity—
We also envy one he takes in his kind arms unto his cool retreat—
His low-thatched house with all the curtains down,
And grass-grown street.

Whence came, in the beginning, this fell fear of change?
This blighting thought of curses for sin?
These black habitations?—somewhere are hired waiters
God's pitying to win.

Why do we drag this heavy ball and chain
Thro' all the paths where living feet may tread?
Why call we that which liveth yet beyond our reach of vision—"dead,"
Then say, they live again?

"No worthy life and life is thine thro' all foreverness"—
Thus said an ancient sage in his fair day.
Hath later days a better word for all man's questionings?

Black velvet applied in some way to white taffeta as trimming is one of the August notes. It suggests a tendency of fussiness that is to be deplored. But in its early stages this trimming idea is well worked out. One striking white taffeta skirt is banded with lengthwise stripes of black velvet ribbon of various widths from waist to hem. It is an idea that any dressmaker could vary to suit her own taste.

Lace continues in favor. At many of the fashionable watering places, here and in Europe, evening frocks made of lace flounces abound. The ruffled skirt is especially attractive when it is developed with lace flounces. One interesting model recently seen in Paris was made with brown lace ruffles mounted on a brown silk foundation.

Hip pockets are still a feature of some skirts. On sport skirts there are flat patch pockets. On some of the new pleated skirts small pockets are occasionally applied on skirt with smooth fitting yokes. Then there are the looped pockets on some of the new skirts, finished along the top with a little embroidery or braiding.

Metallic lace is popular, as might be supposed from the popularity of ordinary lace and also of metallic fabrics of all kinds. One of the most interesting metallic laces is a coarse flat lace with patterns outlined in coarse silver or gold threads. This sort of lace is used for tunics.

The slashed foundation skirt is decidedly popular. It is a narrow foundation skirt under a flaring long tunic, and it is slashed at two or three inch intervals for a couple of inches in what is known as a "Wall of Troy" manner. This method is especially effective developed in sac-in frocks, both for afternoon and evening wear. One that has attracted attention is a satin evening gown with a deep lace tunic and a bodice composed almost entirely of lace.

No New York Namesake.
The genuine old New Yorker was looking very sad indeed. "I was looking over a post office guide or directory today," he said, "and while other cities of the land have small towns scattered about the country named for them, New York is without a single namesake. If I had the New York concept I might say there could be but one New York, but I haven't, and I wonder if the absence of namesakes is due to the fact that New Yorkers are so numerous of their city that none has ever gone forth to colonize, or that those who have gone are of so small consequence that they have been unable to do as much as to give the name of their native town to any that they have assisted in founding. Whatever it is, the result remains, and there is but one New York mentioned in the post office directory."
